

Meeting Your Needs through the Power of Progress

Our high-tech world is increasing electric use in our homes and businesses. Whether it's central air conditioning, computers or a plasma screen TV, electricity brings comfort and convenience to our lives.

As electricity use increases, the demands on our region's power system also increase. That's why conservation, new and proven energy sources and reliable transmission will play such an important role in helping meet our future need for electricity. American Electric Power and Allegheny Energy are partnering to help meet those needs and keep your future bright.
